Call For Papers

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES:

Article length: 800–1,500 words submitted in digital format (i.e., Microsoft Word). R&D articles can be up to 3,000 words.

To view the CFP for Research & Development articles, please go to http://cisr.jmu.edu/journal/cfps/RDCFP1.pdf.

Images/photos: Photo file size must be large enough to reproduce in print. Submit all graphics by email. When submitting images, you are giving The Journal permission to use the images, with proper credit, in any media or publication under CISR’s control now and in the future. Important: Please do not embed images in your Word documents. The quality is too poor for printing.

Contact information/bio: Articles must contain each author’s name and full contact information at the end of the article (i.e., phone, email and mailing address). Please include a headshot photo and biography (up to 60 words) of each author. Consider including credentials, books authored and other biographical information.

For complete submission guidelines, please visit: http://cisr.jmu.edu/journal/index/guidelines.htm.

Submit all materials to:
Editor-in-Chief, The Journal of ERW and Mine Action Center for International Stabilization and Recovery James Madison University, 800 S. Main Street, MSC 4902 Harrisonburg, VA 22807 / USA Phone: +1 540 568 2503 Email: cisreditor@gmail.com Website: http://cisr.jmu.edu

FOCUS: CWD Emergency Response
The Journal seeks articles on emergency response in the mine action and conventional weapons destruction context. What are the responsibilities, challenges and risks to Quick Reaction Force contractors and international nongovernmental organizations that respond to these crises? How can countries bordering ongoing conflicts deal with the expanded weapons contamination threats to refugees, including risk education and survivor assistance for those injured by weapons or who have lost family and community members as part of the conflict and their displacement? What are best practices for rapid assessments, post-blast cleanup and stockpile security? When do emergency risk-education and clearance efforts best support refugee populations? How are these efforts timed in relation to concluding or ongoing conflicts? What challenges are faced? Case-studies are encouraged.

FEATURE: Sahel-Maghreb
Recent uprisings and conflicts in Africa’s Sahel-Maghreb region have led to intensified proliferation of small arms and light weapons (SA/LW). Increasingly, this issue must be tackled at regional as well as national levels. What responsibilities does the international community have in addressing these issues? What work is being done to secure and destroy excess SA/LW and munitions, to cleanup contaminated areas, and to support survivors and ex-combatants in the Sahel-Maghreb region? What threat do these munities pose and how are they causing instability in the region? The Journal also welcomes articles on national and regional conventional weapons destruction efforts, challenges and lessons learned from the Sahel-Maghreb region. Countries and territories of particular interest are Algeria, Chad, Libya, Mali, Mauritania, Morocco, Niger, Senegal, Tunisia and Western Sahara.

SPECIAL REPORT: SA/LW Marking and Tracing Initiatives
The Journal requests articles from national, regional and donor perspectives on small arms and light weapons (SA/LW) marking and tracing initiatives. How do SA/LW marking and tracing efforts affect border security? How can current regional programs in Africa’s Great Lakes Region and the Caribbean be replicated in other regions of the globe? Should they be replicated? What lessons have been learned in national and regional marking and tracing efforts? How can these previous efforts inform future marking and tracing plans for donors and countries/regions?

To subscribe to The Journal, visit http://cisr.jmu.edu/journal/subscribe.asp.

READ THIS:
The Journal editorial staff reserves the right to reject submissions that include text copied from other sources in part or as a whole. Works that were published previously and for which the author retains publishing rights may be submitted, but The Journal requires the author provide notification of this when submitting the article and give contact information for the original publisher so that reprint permission may be verified. Reprint submissions for which this information is not provided up front may be rejected. Please note that The Journal reserves all rights to content published and requires notification and written approval before content is used again by another source or publication.

Authors who submit articles to The Journal are expected to do so in good faith and are solely responsible for the content therein, including the accuracy of all information and correct attribution for quotations and citations.

The Journal of ERW and Mine Action is sponsored by:

SUPPORTING MURAL: Center for International Stabilization and Recovery