Issue 20.2

Articles due 1 February 2016
Publication: July 2016

The Journal invites government bodies, nongovernmental organizations, military personnel, researchers, academics and industry experts to contribute their articles or case studies. We are actively looking for theoretical and practice-based non-promotional editorial contributions.

SPOTLIGHT:

South and Central Asia

How are international and national operators in South Central Asia addressing threats? What has changed in the way data is collected and analyzed? What lessons learned can be shared with the broader CWD community?

FEATURE:

Mobile Technologies

The Journal seeks articles that discuss how mobile technologies are currently being implemented in CWD and mine action. How has the availability of mobile applications (apps) improved the identification and mapping of unexploded ordnance and landmines? What techniques and best practices are used? What mobile apps are best and why? How do these apps integrate with the Information Management System for Mine Action (IMSMA)? What new initiatives are being used to collect data via mobile data (real-time data) and use it in novel ways for analysis? How can mobile apps improve mapping, satellite imagery, and layering of data? Case studies are encouraged.
