There might be a chance that I transfer next semester, what will happen to with my major then? What is that process like?

What is KDP and how do you get in? What requirements do you have after getting into KDP?

Has anyone successfully student taught out of the state of Virginia while enrolled at jmu? I've heard different answers from different people.

When am I supposed to meet with my program advisor? Also, I don't think I selected a plan for my four or five years. When/how do I do that?

When do we need to apply to the education program?

How many credits do we have room for, for a minor? Do we have any room in the schedule of major to classes to explore other classes that are not our minor/ major?

Do you need a required GPA or SAT score to be accepted into the college of Education?

When do we find out who our advisor is for the rest of the year? Thank you so much!

Is it okay that I still do not have an education advisor?

If I am a freshman, is there any way I can do the 5 year masters program? Or is that completely off limits for me?

I am participating in the Overcoming Barriers program on Monday's from 5-7 and I have class on Tuesday's from 5-7:45. I was wondering if I could set up another time for an advising session. My evenings are free on Thursdays, or I could do earlier in the day on Tuesday's. Thanks for your help!

Is it possible to meet with the COE Advisor to talk about my course track because I have some questions about it?

When is the best time to apply for the College of Education?

Do I need to have passed the Basic Skills Test in order to apply for the Teachers Education Program?

Can I apply to teacher education even though it's only my first semester taking education classes and am not caught up as most?

When will we be assigned our major advisors?
