Parental Acknowledgment and Assumption of Risk (Required for all FFPC participants):

My child(ren) _____ is/are eligible to participate in the 2012 Furious Flower Poetry Camp held at James Madison University. I understand that participation in any activity is voluntary, and participants may withdraw from the activity at any time. In determining whether my child will participate in the activity, I am aware that James Madison University cannot undertake financial responsibility for my child in the event that he/she is injured or becomes ill while participating in the activity, nor can it assume any legal responsibility for harm my child may cause because of participation in the activity.

In consideration of the university permitting my child's participation in the activity, I agree to assume the risks known to be inherent in the activity, as well as any unforeseeable risks. The known risks inherent in the activity are: injuries inherent in the physical activities of the classes, communicable diseases, loss of personal property, and injury due to personal or third party actions.

I understand that the Furious Flower Poetry Camp will attempt to provide first aid and arrange transportation to medical services if needed. Cost of medical care beyond aid is the financial responsibility of the ill or injured person.

I have read and understand the foregoing explanation of the risk inherent in allowing my child to participate in the activity. I hereby accept the risk of injury to my child as a result of participation in the activity, and, as further consideration for its permitting my child to participate in the activity, I hereby release James Madison University, the Furious Flower Poetry Center, and all its staff and volunteers from any and all claims which I or my child may have against it for loss or damage to property resulting from my child's participation in the activity.
