What is the difference between a Report, Formal Report, and Telling Title IX?
We use the term "report" to refer to information that Title IX receives about instances of sexual misconduct involving JMU community members.

When someone tells the Title IX Coordinator about sexual misconduct, whether it is in person, over the phone, email or on our online form, it is a report. So really, there is no difference between reporting to Title IX or telling or sharing information with Title IX.

A Formal Report is different than reporting/telling. JMU community members who would like to have their cases heard through a campus conduct process sign a Formal Report Form with Title IX in order to being the steps in that process.

What if I'm not ready to talk?
That is okay! We understand that this is a difficult time. If you are not ready, our resources will continue to be here for you if and whenever you are ready. You can report an incident no matter when or where the conduct occurred.

It is your decision whether or not you want to move forward, whether that be through requesting interim measures, connecting with a counselor, or going through a campus conduct process.

Why Title IX?
Title IX is a resourceful and well-connected office that is trained in receiving and handling reports of sexual misconduct. We understand it is your decision and you can connect with us at any time.
