

“Sometimes I think it’s the unexpected, say you read an event description and you think “Oh okay, these are the things that are going to come out of it” but the reality is there are so many rich opportunities and rewards that come out of those experiences. And some of them are the unplanned things - the conversation with the person next to you while you’re getting coffee. It’s getting a chance to always be able to be a student, to always reflect on what we’re doing and challenge ourselves, learn new information and skills and it’s a great way to collaborate with people you don’t normally get talk to on a day to day basis. That’s the biggest thing - CFI is the connector, giving us chances to explore things we didn’t even know existed.”
