

"I think [the CFI] is one of the pillars that helps secure the campus as a safe and comfortable learning environment - providing space and intention for us to learn from one another with specific goals or to address a broader issue. It can range from how to use clickers in your classroom to how to be more contemplative in your educational approaches. It sends a message to the faculty that JMU cares enough about what we're doing to provide us with a strong, well established system to get what we need to do our jobs as teachers and scholars and in service."
