

“One of my favorite things about CFI is that it helps you build relationships beyond your department and beyond your individual school. When I tell people about my experience at JMU, I always tell them that I have been able to build bridges across the university that I was never able to build at other universities. I don’t think any of that would’ve been possible without CFI. CFI is the key to building those collaborative relationships across the university.”

Jennifer PeeksMease