- Establish relationships with CoB professors and staff
- Develop leadership and team skills
- Master study skills and maximize the use of study groups
- Expand your networking skills
- Participate in networking or dining etiquette events
- Build close relationships with your cohort peers

“MadisonBiz provided me a space to meet and bond with other students within the College of Business that I don’t feel that I would have connected with otherwise. I found people whom I now consider lifelong friends within my first year at James Madison University.”
