

SPONSOR COLLABORATION IN THE VALLEY

Support the valley's problem-solvers by funding the 2024 Shenandoah Valley Collaborative Economic Summit on October 15, 2024.

Together with a planning committee of local stakeholders, JMU's Office of Economic and Community Development, a unit within the division of Research, Economic Development, and Innovation, will convene practitioners, leaders, and community members across localities and sectors to further develop strategies to address different facets of four pressing issues – transportation, childcare, housing, and workforce development. Building on the 2021 and 2022 Regional Economic Recovery Series, this Summit is for anyone interested in or already working to address these issues, including people in local and state government, planning, economic development, social and human services, healthcare, community-based nonprofits, private businesses, and more.

Tier 1 ($500-$999):

- Company logo on conference website.
- Mention in opening and closing remarks.
- Recognition on social media platforms.

Tier 2 ($1,000-$2,499):

- All Tier 1 perks, plus:
- Enhanced logo placement on conference website and printed materials.
- Recognition during keynote sessions.
- Company logo on conference signage.
- Opportunity to include promotional materials in attendee folders.

Tier 3 ($2,500-$5,000):

- All Tier 2 perks, plus:
- Priority logo placement on conference website, printed materials, emails, and signage.
- Exclusive sponsor spotlight in conference newsletter or email blast.
- Option to host/facilitate a breakout session or workshop.

Sponsorship funds will enable this event to be free for all attendees. Ready to support? Please contact Carrie Combs (teicheca@jmu.edu) or Nora Sutton (suttonnk@jmu.edu) by Friday, September 6.