5-5:30pm Networking

Take advantage of this time to discuss your ideas, questions, comments and seek tips and advice from the different presenters and special guests representing:

- JMU International Alumni - Our special guests have walked through the same path that you are going through. What advice do you wish they would give you?
- Career & Academic Planning - Did you know that they are organizing a Career Fair that will take place next week? Did you know that they offer workshops that can help you write a resume and provide you with resume critiques or opportunities for you to practice interviewing?
- The Graduate School - Did you know that graduate assistantships can pay your tuition and provide you with some stipend money? Did you also know that your chances of obtaining a work visa are greater if you have a graduate degree?
- GoinGlobal - One of the great tools that is available to every JMU student is GoinGlobal. It is a great tool that allows you to see which companies have sponsored international students for work visas, but you can also look at the many country and city guides, and conduct searches for jobs and internships. Don't you want to access them now?
- International Students Scholar Services - During the many iCareer workshops that we have offered and continue to offer this semester and next, you will hear many times that it is never too early to be planning for your career. Do immigration policies and procedures have any consequences on timing and planning?
