1. Master of Music in Vocal Performance: Goals and Objectives

Masters Candidates in Vocal Performance at JMU are expected to meet the goals and objectives set out in the paragraph entitled “Master of Music In Performance” as well as the “Objectives” expected upon graduation under “Music Performance” in the JMU School of Music Graduate Handbook: All voice majors should familiarize themselves with this part of the handbook. In addition to the general requirement of completing a minimum of 32 semester hours of graduate credit, specific requirements of the voice area include:

1. Extensive applied study at the 600 level in voice lessons, and both chamber and large ensembles.
2. Complete a required full recital with at least 50 minutes of music, which includes standard repertoire in Italian, French and German and English and incorporates Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Modern styles of music appropriate to the candidate’s vocal category and technical levels.
3. Study the pedagogy and literature of their own voice type, as well as seeking a general knowledge of all vocal repertoire for teaching purposes.

Current courses to be taken are detailed in the checklist at the end of this document. The list reflects the degree curriculum for the Fall of 2018. Candidates are encouraged to review the requirements for their degree listed in the JMU Graduate Catalogue for their year, which is used as the final resource for graduation requirements.

2. Doctor of Musical Arts in Vocal Performance Pedagogy and Literature: Goals and Objectives

Candidates for a Doctor of Musical Arts Degree with a Vocal Performance concentration are advised to note that this D.M.A. has required courses in Pedagogy and Literature, both in core and area requirements. Candidates are reminded that the JMU D.M.A. is considered a terminal degree in performance and teaching, and designed for musicians who have the potential to pursue the highest level of achievement in both disciplines. Furthermore, students are expected to expand their knowledge of music literature and pedagogy during their studies.

Candidates are advised that the list of competencies they are expected to display at the end of the degree is large—and they should familiarize themselves with goals and objectives in the paragraph entitled “Doctor of Musical Arts in Performance/Conducting, Pedagogy, Literature” as well as the specific requirements under “Performance, Pedagogy, and Literature” in the JMU School of Music Graduate Handbook.

Current courses to be taken are detailed in the checklist at the end of this document. The list reflects the degree curriculum for the Fall of 2018. Candidates are encouraged to review the requirements for their degree listed in the JMU Graduate Catalogue for their year, which is used as the final resource for graduation requirements.

3. JMU Assistantship Financial Aid

Assistantship aid does not automatically guarantee MM and DMA candidates that they will have ALL of their tuition paid. Undergraduate courses taken to remediate a deficiency in a prerequisite do not necessarily receive tuition remission. The maximum number of graduate credits per semester paid for by a JMU MM assistantship is nine hours and for a DMA assistantship, it is twelve hours.

4. Program of Study

All DMA and MM students will prepare a program of study document with the Director of Graduate Studies, Dr. Mary Jean Speare, which will be checked and undersigned by their advisor - the student's studio teacher. (An exception is when the studio teacher is an Adjunct Professor. In that case, the Voice Area Coordinator becomes the student's advisor.) This document is to be completed during the first semester of study at JMU. The original document remains on file with the Graduate Coordinator, and a copy of the original must be submitted to the studio teacher.

Candidates will submit copies of previous degree recitals and a comprehensive list of repertoire performed, including dates and venues, and present these documents to the studio teacher at the time that the program of study is created.

5. Recital Hearings

Hearings for MM recitals will take place 10-14 days before the MM recital is to be given. 25 minutes of a 50-minute recital will be chosen, and the candidate will have the right to offer the first piece selected with the following numbers selected by the voice faculty members in attendance. The student will be assigned a grade by the voice faculty at the time of the hearing. Hearings for DMA recitals will take place 20-28 days before the scheduled recital date. Each recital should contain approximately 50 minutes of repertoire, and 25 minutes of repertoire may be required by the voice faculty for hearing. The first piece may be selected by the candidate. In the event of a candidate not passing a hearing, the earliest re-scheduling of a hearing will take place 4-6 weeks after the original hearing, or at the beginning of the next semester. The DMA hearing is not graded, but permission to perform the credit recital is either granted or not, with the final grade for the recital assigned after the recital by the recital committee.

6. Recital Memorization and Content

All recital repertoire is to be memorized. Exceptions can be made for oratorio works and complex ensemble pieces, but this must be approved by the studio teacher in advance of the hearing. As a general policy, no more than two pieces which fit the guidelines above can be used as exceptions, and generally, at least 80% of the repertoire for the recital involving these types of pieces must be memorized. Exceptions to this guideline can be made at the discretion of the studio teacher, in collaboration with the Voice Area faculty.

Repertoire which the candidate presents should not have been previously performed before attending JMU, and reflect the work done in the voice studio with the applied teacher's supervision. Submission of old repertoire without the full knowledge of the voice teacher is considered a violation of the JMU honor code. Exceptions to this rule should be petitioned to the studio teacher.

MM candidates are required to give one 50 minute recital which encompasses the major languages of French, German, Italian and English repertoire and style periods which include Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Modern.

DMA candidates are expected to perform three standard recitals and one major lecture recital which reflect the following guidelines:

1. A Standard Recital including repertoire which encompasses the major languages of French, German, Italian and English repertoire and style periods which include Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Modern. Compositional styles chosen may also reflect the vocal category of the candidate. For example, a large dramatic voice suitable for Wagner may not find repertoire from the Baroque era to be appropriate.
2. A Chamber Music Recital, with repertoire involving various instrumental and/or vocal ensembles composing at least half of the program. The selections should be chosen from various eras, and be in contrasting languages and styles.
3. A Themed Recital with repertoire which reflects special musical academic interests of the candidate. This may be a specific composer and his/her works, or a specific literary and/or musical subject.
4. A Lecture Recital which is most often a combination of a lecture and a performance illustrating the scholarly research and discoveries the candidate has made in his/her MUS 763 document. See the JMU School of Music Graduate Handbook under the headings "The Graduate Recital or Lecture Recital," and "MUS 763 Document Information."

5. Repertoire for the recitals above may contain significant oratorio and operatic arias appropriate to the candidate's vocal type.

7. DMA Substitution of two opera roles for the chamber music recital

If a student has successfully completed a combination of 'leading' and 'feature' opera roles in JMU Opera productions, the student may petition the voice faculty to substitute two operatic roles performed at JMU to substitute for the chamber music recital. The decision to allow this exception is at the discretion of the Voice Area faculty. AGMA guidelines for roles considered "Leading" or "Feature" may be submitted along with the request, but the voice faculty reserves the right to consider each student and each role as a separate case for consideration. The operas submitted for approval should optimally be of contrasting styles and periods. In the semester in which one hopes to exercise the option of substitution of two opera roles for the chamber music recital, it is essential for the student enroll in MUS 761 to get the credit.

8. Jury Examinations

All MM and DMA vocal performance students who are enrolled in applied voice lessons for credit will be required to present a jury at the end of every semester in which they have not given a recital hearing or performed a major operatic role.

The requirement for jury examinations for graduate-level voice instruction for non-majors at the end of the semester is at the discretion of the student's applied voice instructor.

9. DMA Recital Committees

The committee for a DMA vocal recital will consist of 1) The student's applied teacher 2) one other voice area member 3) one music faculty member who is NOT part of the voice faculty. The final grade assigned to the recital by the committee must be an average of the three grades given by each committee member. Committee members must be notified at least two weeks in advance of the recital and sign a form of consent that they will be in attendance. Under exceptional circumstances, a member of the committee may not be able to attend the performance, and the student will be allowed to submit a video for viewing by that member at a later date. It is the responsibility of the student to provide the video recording for the absent committee member.

10. DMA and MM Recital Program notes

DMA and MM candidates are required to furnish program notes for their recital which reflect a scholarly knowledge and understanding of the repertoire they are performing, in addition to text translations. Notes should be submitted at the time of the recital hearing.

11. Lecture Recital Procedures

Specific information for the preparation of a D.M.A. lecture recital and the document related to this final capstone project is available in the JMU School of Music Graduate Handbook, under the headings “The Graduate Recital or Lecture Recital,” and “MUS 763 Document Information.” Note the suggested timeline, which guides the student through the amount of work that should be invested in this project should they intend to graduate in three years. The project should be unique research in vocal music studies, following the guidelines of an approved style manual, and completed with a defense of the document to the committee selected during the second year of the DMA course studies. With special permission, the document may be a different subject than the lecture recital. See the JMU School of Music Graduate Handbook for guidelines on how to proceed with this exception.

12. Vocal Coaching and Musical Preparation

Graduate candidates are responsible for learning and preparing their repertoire for lessons, auditions, recitals, and concerts independently. The use of a coach-accompanist is at the student’s discretion and personal expense. Collaborative pianists may be available through the piano area. Students may be assigned one through the accompanying classes. Contact Dr. Gabriel Dobner, head of the collaborative piano program at JMU for further details.

13. Language Prerequisites

Language Prerequisites for MM vocal performance majors are: Two semesters of French, Italian, and German. Language Prerequisites for DMA Candidates are: Four Semesters of two of three languages of French, Italian, and German, and two semesters of one language of the remaining language of French, Italian, and German. These prerequisites can be met in one of the following three methods:

- a. Register for and take the language courses they need through JMU. Graduate students may register for a MUS 690 Special Topics course through their primary advisor, and a passing grade of B or above will satisfy this requirement.
- b. Present a transcript from another institution to prove that this prerequisite of 3-4 semesters of study have been met.
- c. Take the JMU FLPE (Foreign Language Placement Exams) exams to prove that competency and equivalency have been met. The webpage to lead them to this is currently: <http://www.jmu.edu/forlang/flpe>
