

Pike Place Market is one of Seattle's most popular tourist destinations. Only a few stalls are now open.

The Seattle Public Library closed and empty.

A customer keeping her distance while ordering from a bakery.

Seattle During COVID-19

PHOTO ESSAY BY TANYA FAKTES

On March 23, Governor Jay Inslee issued a Stay Home, Stay Healthy proclamation that requires every Washingtonian to stay home unless they need to pursue an essential activity. It is still safe to go outside as long as citizens are following the social distancing rules.

This shows how COVID-19 has impacted Seattle, a city that is typically bustling with activity around the clock.

On the left is a sign at Gas Works Park advising people to keep moving to avoid crowding. The bottom photo is the line at Trader Joe's in Capital Hill. They are limiting the amount of people in the store and implementing social distancing.

