| Summary of Accomplishments | - Committee engaged in discussions related to interaction practices, indicators of positive and negative campus climate, the breadth and depth of defining employment groups, free speech, and personal experiences related to campus climate at JMU.
- Committee reviewed best practices for studying employment climate at other institutions. The standout practice at other institutions was the use of employee climate studies. This finding led to a recommendation for a climate study of JMU employees.
- Committee reviewed inclusion values in over 30 university documents and communications in relationship to JMU Goal 3C (“The University will show evidence of a continuously improving environment that is welcoming and inclusive; such that events, messages, symbols, and services express mutual respect”). The review led to discussions about the importance of using “inclusion” as a stand-alone term when possible, reducing the use of coded language (such as the term collegiality), weaving inclusion through the entire job posting and search process, and ensuring there are processes to give voice to those who encounter discrepancies between official institutional statements/policies and realities. |
